ABC announced today that two of its fan-favorite game shows, “Celebrity Family Feud” and “Jeopardy! Masters,” have been renewed for new seasons set to air later this year.

“Celebrity Family Feud” returns for a 10th season, hosted by stand-up comedian, actor, author and Emmy® Award winner Steve Harvey. Myeshia Mizuno is set to join this season as showrunner. Mizuno also serves as showrunner on the network’s unscripted courtroom comedy series, “Judge Steve Harvey.” Two specials will also air later this year in celebration of the iconic show, “Family Feud: Decades of Laughs” and “Family Feud: The Best of Steve Harvey,” highlighting some of the best moments from the syndicated and primetime shows throughout the years. “Celebrity Family Feud” stood as ABC’s No. 1 series and ranked No. 1 in the Sunday 8 p.m. hour last summer.

“Jeopardy! Masters,” produced by Sony Pictures Television and hosted by “G.O.A.T.” Ken Jennings, is returning for another tournament-style season to air later this spring. Each hourlong episode will showcase some of the highest-ranked current “Jeopardy!” contestants, with two action-packed and high-stakes games. The full field of contestants competing for the coveted title of “Jeopardy! Masters” Champion will be announced at a later date. The high-stakes competition will air on ABC and stream next day on Hulu.

“Jeopardy! Masters” finished among the top three new series last season in both Total Viewers and Adults 18-49 and averaged 7.27 million Total Viewers after 35 days of delayed viewing on linear and streaming platforms.

“Celebrity Family Feud” is produced by Fremantle. Myeshia Mizuno is the showrunner and executive producer.
